Stephan is loved by our residents and also by his co-workers within the nursing department and within the building as a whole.

Stephan is described by many as having a great personality, always being positive, professional, helpful and patient with new staff. They recognize him as always smiling, able to assist with soothing residents, and having great relationships with the residents.

When Stephan isn't at work, he enjoys spending time with his fiancée and three small children. He also enjoys spending time with his family, sports and outdoor activities.
